Gangzhou Dahua Announced 2018 Operating Data

2019-04-08

Dropping after remaining high for several months, in 2018 TDI price experienced two rallies. During the first few months of 2018, domestic TDI producers had a low level of inventories and as a result the price remained high. But from March to April, the price set on a downward trajectory. By the end of April, the price reached RMB 24,000/ton (including tax), bottoming out for the first time. In May and June, the price was on an upward trajectory. At the end of June, the price trend was reversed, dropping to hit RMB 24,000/ton (including tax) again, bottoming out for the second time. In mid-July, Gasu Yinguang announced that it would suspend production for over a month of overhaul. consequently, the price further rose. By August, the price reached RMB 31,000/ton (including tax). Throughout September, imported goods put downward pressure on the price...More
